

“To create or not to create a personal website” sooner or later each teacher meets such a question. Surely, there are advantages and disadvantages of creating your site. The great minus is that you must post a lot of personal information. But the plus is that you choose yourself what information to post. The other minus is that it takes much time. The plus is that nobody makes you stay days and nights at the computer posting information.

Let's discuss the other advantages of the personal website. People will learn more about you, you can communicate with people all over the world if you wish, you can share information with your colleges and students.

So you should make up your mind whether to create your site or not. And if you think that it worth it then do it.
