

In 2009 mankind celebrated forty years of Internet. Every day millions of users open their favorite websites to know about all events to take some information quickly. Having a website nowadays is no longer a whim, it is a necessity. What are the real advantages and disadvantages of having personal websites? Let`s make it clear.

There are many reasons why people create their own personal websites. Making a website for yourself has numerous advantages.

One of the advantages of having your own website is that you can share your knowledge, experience and enthusiasm with people who have common interests. Website makes it simple and easy to gather information.

As an advantage, your own website offers the chance of representing your portfolio to everyone interested almost at the click of the mouse.

Another advantage of personal websites is the ability to keep useful information or documents in order.

On the other hand, it takes you a lot of time to maintain your site. And then you should keep in mind that a website does need some time to keep it nice and up to date. You have to pay if you don`t want have banners and pop ads on your homepage and all of your pages.

The advantages and disadvantages of having your website are numerous, but ultimately it is up to you to decide whether or not having it. Personal websites are excellent tools to use – if used correctly. Since a bad website works just as much as a good website does, only in a negative way!