

Our modern life needs having your personal site or blog in the Internet. If you are a teacher having a site is the necessity in modern system of education. Our education demands the using of different multimedia technologies, electronic dictionaries and Internet. I believe that there are advantages and disadvantages of having your personal website.

People who have website could share interesting information with other people. Some people need sites for their business – to advertise and sell some products. Some of them have Internet shops. It's very comfortable to have a web page, where you can introduce your goods and there is no much rent for placement.

Nowadays most teachers have their own web sites. They upload different educational information there and their students can do tasks distantly, which cut the time.

Some people are against web sites, because of wasting their time. They suppose that this is hairy and unhealthful to spend much time playing the computer games or working on it. I can guess such people do not know computer technologies and it's very difficult for them to work with it.

What for me, I would like to have my personal site, to upload different information, different tasks for my students. I know a bit about multimedia technologies and like to learn about it. I don't have much time to draw pictures with hand or write some exercises on the paper. For me it's comfortable to tape and to send a e-mail for my students. So, I am really happy to have an opportunity to make my personal web site.
