Yesenin was a Russian poet
As great as other Russians were.
He had really magic talent
To love his land, to praise his land.

He came to Moscow from Ryazan
From "golden wooden home".
Where he was brought up by his granny
And she inspired him create poems.

He liked the nature with Russian birches
Which were the symbol of the land.
And he described the Russian winter
With admiration what he had.

He was a poet of Russian soul
Kind-hearted, but sometimes sad.
He couldn't find an ideal girl-friend
Who made him happy in this world.

What a pity, I should say,
What tragic end his life could come to.
But we remember him as one of them
